James K. Elmborg, Sheril Hook : Centers for Learning: Writing Centers And Libraries in Collaboration (Acrl Publications in Librarianship) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Centers for Learning: Writing Centers And Libraries in Collaboration (Acrl Publications in Librarianship):

Centers for Learning examines the potentials inherent in partnerships between libraries and writing centers. By focusing on shared concepts and practices, the editors suggest that such partnerships might respond more coherently to the needs of today's students. Case studies highlighting the possibilities of collaborations form the body of the book. A conclusion reflects on the implications of these case studies from a writing center perspective.

About the Author James K. Elmborg is associate professor, School of Library and Information Science at the University of Iowa. Sheril Hook is coordinator of Instructional Services at the University of Toronto, Mississauga.
