From Libraries Unlimited : Conversations with Catalogers in the 21st Century (Libraries Unlimited Library Management Collection) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Conversations with Catalogers in the 21st Century (Libraries Unlimited Library Management Collection):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. It's cataloging from the earliest to the latestBy catalogerThis work has current issues, future ideas, and the history of cataloging from 3000 B.C., all from experienced and passionate practitioners in cataloging, metadata, library science educators, IT professionals, and more. Some articles are very complex, others are more conversational. Just as its title indicates, it is conversations from the professionals in the field on topics that they consider important. A unique book.

Authored by cataloging librarians, educators, and information system experts, this book of essays addresses ideas and methods for tackling the modern challenges of cataloging and metadata practices. Contains essays authored by experienced, passionate, and articulate catalogers, metadata librarians, and other experts Includes original research survey results on librarians' views regarding current topics such as RDA, AACR2, FRBR, the use of upstream data, and cataloging on the Semantic Web Contains an introductory timeline and history of cataloging and metadata from ancient to present times Provides a chronological bibliography of selected works related to cataloging and libraries through 1800 and a more complete bibliography of related works Includes a foreword and afterword by three internationally known and respected cataloging figures, Michael Gorman, Dr. Sheila S. Intner, and Dr. Susan S. Lazinger

"I recommend that every cataloger and metadata librarian out there take the time to read this book." - Technical Services Quarterly
"Recommended for all serious catalogers and managers of the cataloging enterprise in all libraries." - Library Journal
