Larry Millsap, Terry E. Ferl : Descriptive Cataloging for the Aacr2r and Usmarc: A How-To-Do-It Workbook (How-To-Do-It Manuals for Libraries) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Descriptive Cataloging for the Aacr2r and Usmarc: A How-To-Do-It Workbook (How-To-Do-It Manuals for Libraries):

This workbook is designed to give cataloguers practice in original descriptive cataloguing. It is especially intended for cataloguers in small libraries who must from time to time create original cataloguing for unique items in a variety of formats, but who don't have experienced specialists nearby. Bibliographic information is presented in a series of exercises, consisting of title page or other information which the reader will use to create a cataloguing record on the workform. Following each workform is the completed catalogue record (or "answer") and explanations citing the rules which apply. Formats covered include: books, archives and manuscripts, computer files, maps, music and sound recordings, visual materials, and serials.
