

(Library ebook) Documentary: A History of the Non-Fiction Film

Documentary: A History of the Non-Fiction Film

Erik Barnouw

**Download PDF / ePub / DOC / audiobook / ebooks*

DOWNLOAD

+

READ ONLINE

#445758 in Books imusti 1993-01-07Ingredients: Example IngredientsOriginal language:EnglishPDF # 1
5.31 x .81 x 8.00l, .70 #File Name: 0195078985400 pagesOxford University Press USA | File size: 73.Mb

Erik Barnouw : Documentary: A History of the Non-Fiction Film before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Documentary: A History of the Non-Fiction Film:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy FernEasy, informative, and engaging read0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Old book still relevantBy Merry HorenbergerBook I read some 15 years ago for documentary class.And I remembered it and was impressed with it's honestappraisal of the war movies, especially the ones that were exaggerations, half truths or edited before they could be shown. Interestinginformation.2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. ESSENTIAL READING By Nikica Gilic As far as cinema studies goes, this is one of the classics; full of valuable information, reliable interpretations and insightful comments. If you're interested in the numerous facets of documentaries, you could do much worse than start with Barnouw's seminal book. Also, this is a very good example of great academic writing: clever but intriguing (granted, it's easier to write like that in writing history than theory, but nevertheless, you'll probably read this book with great pleasure). Highly recommended!

Now brought completely up to date, the new edition of this classic work on documentary films and filmmaking surveys the history of the genre from 1895 to the present day. With the myriad social upheavals over the past decade, documentaries have enjoyed an international renaissance; here Barnouw considers the medium in the light of an entirely new political and social climate. He examines as well the latest filmmaking technology, and the effects that video cassettes and cable television are having on the production of documentaries. And like the previous editions, Documentary is filled with photographs, many of them rare, collected during the author's travels around the world. Covering the full course of the documentary from Louis Lumiere's first effort to recent landmark productions such as Shoah, this book makes the growing importance of a unique blend of art and reality accessible and understandable to all film lovers.

"This is the best historical overview of that major genre termed 'Documentary' or 'Non-fiction.'" --Edward S. Small, Phd., University of Kansas
"Nothing compares, still." --Amy Villarejo, Cornell University
"A reasonably priced introduction to a major area of film making which is all too often left in the shadow of drama. It is both thorough and readable." --Fred Caffney, South Kent College
"First rate history--well written, with a coherent and constant focus on the power of the documentary film." --Tom Mullin, Eastern Washington University
"The best in its field. I have used the first edition for almost twenty years to great effect. Barnouw is a masterful text writer." --Robert J. Allen, Seton Hall University
"This is the basic book for anybody who wants to be a documentary filmmaker. Very good!" --Aleksander Mandis, New York University
"A concise, accurate and indispensable book for any lover of documentary film. An indispensable reference and a worthy text for any course on the subject." --Lynne Jackson, St. Francis College
"The best general history of documentary available. Concise, yet wide ranging and erudite. A valuable classroom text." --Michael Griffin, University of Minnesota
Praise for Previous Editions:
"A helpful antidote to the spirit....It presents sign posts to where documentary could be and where it may emerge. Barnouw's style has a clarity and precision that make his books delights to read." --Film Quarterly
"The whole panorama has been richly researched and compactly organized into easy prose by Barnouw, writing at the peak of his competence." --Variety
"Erik Barnouw puts film history in the mainstream of human history as few others have done before. He reminds us of the powers of film to instruct, exhilarate, excite and deceive, and shows how these powers have been used in our time." --Daniel J. Boorstin
"Provides students with a foundation of knowledge from which they can learn, explore, and create." --Ronald A. Hoodak, Elmira College
"Indispensable text. I have used Barnouw's book since 1975, and I'm grateful for each updated edition." --Bill Huie, Texas AM University, Corpus Cristi
"Well-written and wonderfully researched. Clear and concise!...I'm very excited using it." --Robert J. de Maria, Washington and Lee University
"Superior text. [I've] used it for years and will continue to do so." --Professor E. Scott Bryce, St. Cloud State University
"I will almost certainly use it when I next teach the class." --Professor Edward S. Small, University of Kansas
"Very good overview." --Mike Duvall, Saugamon State University
"This knowledgeable chronicle and advocacy of the documentary is marked with the poetry of Barnouw's own appreciation of the medium." --William Judson, University of Pittsburgh
From the Back Cover
Now brought completely up to date, the new edition of this classic work on documentary films and filmmaking surveys the history of the genre from 1895 to the present day. With myriad social upheavals over the past decade, documentaries have enjoyed an international renaissance; here Barnouw considers the medium in the light of an entirely new political and social climate. He examines as well the latest filmmaking technology and the effects that video cassettes and cable television are having on the production of documentaries.
About the Author
Erik Barnouw, now retired, was Chief of the Library of Congress's Motion Picture, Broadcasting, and Recorded Sound Division, and long headed Columbia University's film division. His books include the prize-winning three-volume History of Broadcasting in the United States, Tube of Plenty, The Sponsor, and The Magician and the Cinema.