this book is screwed up and should be ignored. This book has NOTHING to do with any hollow earth theories , "ultra-humans", UFOs or anything of the sort. It is a valuable scholarly study of the hypothesis that the Garden of Eden in the bible refers to a lost civilization that existed at the north pole before the deluge when the polar regions enjoyed a more temperate climate than at present...This land is now under water and ice...The traces of this lost civilization ~geological~mythological~astronomical etc~...are the concerns of this book. It is very interesting..I was led to it by reading Tilak's Arctic Home In The Vedas....It is also important to note that Forbidden Books, the publisher, has also printed the same hollow earth nonsense as a publisher's preface to this edition... I guess no one there read the book...!

The interior of the Earth, some believe, is home to strange races of technologically advanced beings. Who are they and where are the hidden entrances to their subterranean cities? Many readers of the paranormal and the unexplained are familiar with the theory that the Earth is hollow. The idea is based on the ancient legends of many cultures that say there are races of people - entire civilizations - that thrive in subterranean cities. Very often, these dwellers of the world beneath are more technologically advanced than we on the surface. Some even believe that UFOs are not from other planets, but are manufactured by strange beings in the interior of the Earth. Who are these strange races of beings? How did they come to live inside the Earth? And where are the entrances to their underground cities? (Quote from paranormal.about.com)
