By Peace Love
This book was assigned as part of my psychopathology course for my school counseling degree. It is an excellent resource. I feel much more prepared to deal with serious, life-threatening issues in the schools after reading this text. I would highly recommend it to any graduate students, school counselors, and even teachers. This is definitely a book worth keeping and I will not be selling it back. I did only give it four stars because I wish the authors had included more information on programs listed as best practices, as well as a guide to implement those programs to be a success within the school. The book is heavily focused on intervention and postvention strategies. I wish it had spent an equal amount of time on prevention.

By Ellen Rodenhauser Rebman
This book is well written and the contents are so important for any school counselor. I think the news has proven that violence doesn't just happen in inner-city schools. All counselors need to be prepared no matter where their school is located! I am so glad that this was required reading for me for a class.

The first book of its kind to address suicide, self-injury, and violence in school settings
The frequency of suicide, students' self-injury, and violence in school settings requires preventative and response policies and procedures for the safety and protection of faculty and students. Suicide, Self-Injury, and Violence in the Schools: Assessment, Prevention, and Intervention Strategies is the first book to provide first responders specifically, school counselors, psychologists, social workers, teachers, and administrators with information on assessing risk. In addition, guidelines are included on how to respond to these crises in a practical and proactive manner that minimizes risk and/or impact on the school community. The authors, nationally renowned experts on suicide, self-injury, and violence among children and adolescents, present:
Critical information on suicide and suicidal behaviors specific to children and adolescents
Pertinent issues related to nonsuicidal self-injury behaviors
Guidance on conducting effective face-to-face clinical interviews with violent and potentially violent students and their families
Important prevention and screening topics for middle and high school counselors
Discussion on psychological first aid in response to school violence survivors and their parents
Filled with mini-case vignettes, as well as checklists for school personnel to use, this timely reference supports school professionals in devising the very best prevention, intervention, and post-crisis strategies. It is a much-needed resource for establishing a collaborative, nonsuicidal, nonviolent environment both within and outside the school setting.
