From Kogan Page : Supply Chain Management for Humanitarians: Tools for Practice before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Supply Chain Management for Humanitarians: Tools for Practice:

Providing an in-depth insight into the management of supply chains in the context of humanitarian logistics, this book considers humanitarian logistics from both a strategic and operational perspective. The authors cover how to set up a supply chain network, supply chain strategy, decision making, procurement, transportation/fleet management/delivery/distribution, warehouse and inventory management, and information technology. They take a problem-based learning approach with each chapter being self-standing, while still relating to the supply chain as a whole. Additionally, the chapters include a case study written by a practitioner in the humanitarian field.

About the Author All three editors are affiliated with the Hanken School of Economics: Gyngyi Kovcs is Erkkö Professor of Humanitarian Logistics. Karen Spens is Professor of Supply Chain Management and Dean of Education. Ira Haavisto is the Director of the HUMLOG (Humanitarian Logistics and Supply Chain Research) Institute and teaches supply chain management.
