

The Anthropology of Language: An Introduction to Linguistic Anthropology Workbook/Reader

Harriet Joseph Ottenheimer

ePub | *DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

 Download

 Read Online

#819567 in Books Ottenheimer, Harriet Joseph 2012-01-01 Ingredients: Example Ingredients Original language: English PDF # 1 .60 x 8.40 x 10.70l, 1.15 #File Name: 1111828857234 pages | File size: 41.Mb

Harriet Joseph Ottenheimer : The Anthropology of Language: An Introduction to Linguistic Anthropology Workbook/Reader before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Anthropology of Language: An Introduction to Linguistic Anthropology Workbook/Reader:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Two StarsBy CustomerBook was very used1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Another overpriced workbook.By jarAn obscene amount of white space. The exercises are great overall, but this is hardly worth spending around $75 for.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Polyglots RuleBy Susan K.This workbook was in addition to an ebook for a class this semester. So far, the materials my instructor chose help to explain and examine some of the languages of the world.

This notebook-sized workbook/reader offers illuminating classic and contemporary readings that provide additional information on, and insight into, the basic concepts covered in Ottenheimer's text. Exercises and guided projects provide numerous opportunities for you to develop and hone your skills. A series of exercises drawn from a single language is designed to show you the interconnectedness of different levels of analysis. Web exercise sections conclude with pointers to the Anthropology CourseMate website, where you will find glossary flashcards, interactive exercises, links to relevant additional websites, study questions, and key words to guide you as you study. Furthermore, the book's pages are perforated, allowing you to easily remove specific exercises and submit them to your instructor.

"The writing style is one of the greatest strengths of this book. The author hits all the key terms needed for an introductory linguistic anthropology course, and her writing style is accessible, engaging, and at times quite humorous. I especially appreciate her ability to inject humor into some rather dry structural linguistic topics." "I find Ottenheimer's The Anthropology of Language an extremely useful textbook as a very accessible introduction to linguistic anthropology for lower-division undergraduates. Its range and depth strikes a good balance for those first being introduced to an anthropological approach to language." About the Author Harriet Joseph Ottenheimer, Professor Emeritus of Anthropology at Kansas State University, has taught Linguistic Anthropology for over 30 years. Her research interests include music, language and other creative and performative expressions, particularly in African American and African cultures. In addition to extended periods of field research in New Orleans and the Comoro Islands, Dr. Ottenheimer has traveled and lectured widely throughout many other parts of the world. She has special interests in blues, autobiography, transcription, dictionary construction, fieldwork ethics and ethnicity. Dr. Ottenheimer has taught at the University of New Orleans, at Charles University in Prague--on a visiting Fulbright appointment--and at Kansas State University. At KSU, she was the founding director of the interdisciplinary American Ethnic Studies Program, teaching introductory and advanced courses in that program, as well as in cultural and linguistic anthropology. Dr. Ottenheimer has received the Kansas State University President's Award for Distinguished Service to Minority Education and the Charles Irby Award for Distinguished Service to the National Association for Ethnic Studies. She has served as president of the National Association for Ethnic Studies and the Central States Anthropological Association. Dr. Ottenheimer received a B.A. at Bennington College and a Ph.D. at Tulane University and speaks five languages: English, Spanish, French, Russian and Shizwani. She is attempting to learn to speak and read Czech.