stories to prove anything about historical fact. I think science really backs up some of his conclusions he reach nearly a century ago using a Hebrew Bible. But it seems that when you prove the original man was "black" by bible means or science their is always resistance... If you prove it by the bible they say it not science, and when you prove it by science they science is not the bible...1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Good information.By Jimmie Lee BrownVery revealing.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. It gives us a breakdown of where we all really do cuter fromBy Georgia JacquezAfter reading this book, it makes one realize that accepting your real roots are important to understand who you are and where you come from.What I loved about this book is that it used biblical history to prove where we come from.

James Morris Webb (born 1874) was a Christian preacher from USA who was active ca 1910-1930, related to the African Methodist Episcopal Church, which is considered the first African-American denomination in the United States. He was one of several preachers from this denomination who agitated for a black nationalism and a social and kristensyn which highlighted African Americans' role in history. In 1919 he published the book The Black Man, The Father Of Civilization, Proven By Biblical History. He wrote other pamphlets and charged in November 1913 an advertisement in The Chicago Defender with a picture of Jesus as a black man. Webb's intention was to "show love for their race" and "show that the Bible is all about black." Webb later became one of Marcus Garvey employees Universal Negro Improvement Association.
