

(Pdf free) The Living House: An Anthropology of Architecture in South-East Asia

The Living House: An Anthropology of Architecture in South-East Asia

Roxana Waterson

**Download PDF | ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks*

DOWNLOAD

+

READ ONLINE

#126266 in Books 2014-06-10 2014-06-10 Original language: English PDF # 1 10.00 x .80 x 8.50l, 2.55 #File Name: 0804844445300 pages | File size: 47.Mb

Roxana Waterson : The Living House: An Anthropology of Architecture in South-East Asia before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Living House: An Anthropology of Architecture in South-East Asia:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Well written with gorgeous photos! A very carefully researched...By EmmaWell written with gorgeous photos! A very carefully researched ethnography of home in Southeast Asia that blends ethno-history with current practice to provide a deep analysis of the meaning of a house.11 of 11 people found the following review helpful. SuperlativeBy CustomerThis book is an incredible work of ethnographic documentation as well as a tremendous analysis of traditional architecture. Waterson demonstrates how elements of culture, including gender, kinship, and cosmology are reflected in house design and use. The books is filled with photographs and illustrations, both by Waterson and from various collections. This book is a must for anyone interested in South-East Asia, residential architecture, or material culture.

The Living House is a pioneering work by respected anthropologist Roxana Waterson that has become a classic in its field. It is first book of its kind to present a detailed picture of houses within the complex social and symbolic fabric of indigenous South-East Asian peoples. The main focus of the book is on Indonesia, but in tracing historical links between architectural forms across the region, it reveals a much wider field of inquiry covering all of the Austronesian peoples and cultures extending as far afield as Madagascar, Japan and the Pacific islands to New Zealand and Hawaii. As it probes the centrally significant role of houses within South-East Asian social systems, The Living House reveals new insights into the kinship systems, gender symbolism and cosmological principles of the peoples who build them, ultimately uncovering fundamental themes concerning the concepts of life force and life processes inherent in all of these cultures. A vivid picture is produced of how people shape buildings and buildings shape people how rules about layout and spatial usage impact social relationships. The book concludes with a consideration of present-day changes affecting the fates of indigenous cultures and architectures throughout the region. This book will be of tremendous interest to architects and historians, and anyone interested in the indigenous art and cultures of South-East Asia.

About the Author Roxana Waterson studied anthropology at New Hall, Cambridge, where she received her Ph.D in 1981. She has been doing fieldwork with the Sa'adan Toraja people of Sulawesi since 1978. She lives in Singapore where where she is Associate Professor in the Department of Sociology at the National University of Singapore.